

About-Colle Follonica'11

La Colle-born from its parent Follonica Follonica-Siena, also confirmed this year with its technical characteristics, similar to the famous Paris-Dakar, that 's made it famous throughout Italy and beyond, in the editions '06, '07 , '08 and '09 was attended by a group of Dutch riders, offers a course in line about 230 miles off road from Colle di Val d'Elsa, the "City of Glass", which, with its crystal produces about 90% the whole Italian production of glass objects and has been the birthplace of Arnolfo di Cambio, a leading architect of the Middle Ages, in Follonica seaside resort among the most important of the northern Tyrrhenian coast in the past as well as being an important hub for the steel industry Italian.

This year the route has been largely renewed to improve it even more than previous editions. When registering you will be given a map on a large scale (which you will not find on our website) with the highlighted route, the refueling points, refreshments, location of emergency vehicles and cell phones to call in case of necessità. I marked where supplies are required given the length of the lines perscorsi. Between a supply and another, between one country and another there are neither supplies nor food nor fuel to allow the asphalt to cut significantly the path.

The relief that a second breakfast will be organized a bit 'over mid-term, but on arrival there will be a lunch, all included in the price of registration. The track is not overly technical, but challenging, often you get very tired in Follonica, there may be steps that adverse weather conditions, could cause difficulties and possible caps, remember all that is not a race. Because of the length it is recommended to minimize the stops (journey time 5-8 hours) can not be guaranteed assistance in the fixed points + difficult; helping pilots will be conducted by a relay which starts in staggered alternating path with the participants, will also be appreciated the help given by the participants. Will be guaranteed the presence of chiudipista for possible recovery means (where possible) and for security reasons. This assistance will only be in the path marked. Who for any reason (major problems in the 2004 edition) it gets further assumes any liability whatsoever, in its entirety. Not the least of which is derived from the violation of bans. In most of the transit route is allowed only for that day and exclusively in the area marked.
